

Democratic State Ticket.

For Clerk of the Court of Appeals,

THOS. J. HENRY,

OF MORRIS COUNTY.

The Legislature of Tennessee will convene in extra session April 6th, to re-district the state.

Senators Beck and Williams have secured an appropriation to build a public building at Frankfort.

Gutless is offering to sell his old suit of clothes for $100. He has been offered $100 by a curiosity buyer.

Judge Thos. H. Hines, of the Appellate Bench, has returned from his trip to Florida and much improved in health.

John Russell Young, the journalist who made the trip around the world with Grant, has been appointed Minister to China.

The Ashland Hospital has lifted the name of the Jacksonville standard-bearer to its mast head and the Commercial is no longer alone in its glory.

Col. Geo. H. Craddock, of the Paris True Kentuckian, the oldest editor in the State, has been converted under Rev. Geo. O. Barnes' preaching.

A bill allowing the Western Locomotive Ashland at this place to have two assistant physicians, one at $1,200 and the other $1,000 a year, has passed the House.

It is thought that the aspiring Statesmen in the Legislature will re-district the State, so as to throw Joe Blackburn, Proctor Knott and Phil Thompson into the same district.

An election has been ordered for March 29th to fill the vacancy in the Senate caused by Senator Wilkinson's death. The district is composed of Telford, Callaway, Lyon and Livingston counties.

Gov. Blackburn has granted a respite of sixty days to Neal and Craft, who were sentenced to be hanged April 14th, for the murder of Miss Thomas and the Gibbons children at Ashland. This will delay their execution till about the middle of June.

It shows neither wit nor good sense on the part of the members of the State Press to poke fun at Col. Craddock, of Paris, because of his profession of religion under Mr. Barnes' preaching. It is no disgrace to be a Christian, and it is a pity that there are not more pious editors in the State.

Hon. Jake Rife, the big hearted and big-brained Representative from Lawrence county is lying dangerously ill at his hotel in Frankfort.

He started to this place with the remains of Judge Wilkinson, but was stricken with paralysis in Louisville and taken back to Frankfort. He is in a dangerous condition but his friends are not without hope of his recovery.

An appalling earthquake visited Costa Rica, one of the richest provinces of Mexico, last week and destroyed four towns. They were Alajuela, Sauramon, Grecia and Heredia. In the first alone several thousand lives have been lost and those left alive are homeless. Thousands of the inhabitants were swallowed up and the destruction of property was fearful.

Mrs. Jennie H. Edmunds is a candidate for County Clerk in Barren county. In a card announcing her candidacy, she says: "I have no political views whatever. I only desire the office to enable me to better educate and bring up my children. If I am defeated, all right. I can beat it well. 'Nothing like having a good constitution.' She will make the race as an independent candidate. C. C. Terry is the Democratic nominee.

The refusal of the Legislature to repeal the tax of $17,000 a year, imposed upon the State by the last Legislature for the benefit of the A. M. College, at Lexington, is subjecting the body to much adverse criticism from all parts of the State. There is no reason why the State should be taxed for the maintenance of this college. But few papers in the state have approved the action of our law-making statesmen in refusing to repeal the tax.

"The third time is the charm" is an old saying and so it was with the nominations of the President for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Isaac Cokerling was first named but he declined to accept the honor after the Senate had confirmed his nomination. Senator Geo. E. Edmunds, of Vermont, was then tendered the place, but like the society miss of the day he acted upon the principle "I'll not be first choice I won't go with you," and declined the nomination. Judge Samuel Blitchford, of New York was then called from comparative obscurity to accept the honor. He was either too sensible, or wanted the office too bad to refuse because he was not tendered the position first, and promptly accepted the nomination and was confirmed by the Senate. It is unnecessary to add that Judge Blitchford is a stalwart. He is said to be well qualified for the NONSENSE.

It is not calculated to sweeten the disposition of an editor to see one of his pet paragraphs credited to "Ex."

Highway robbers relieved J. H. Jervis of a suit of wedding clothes in McLean county and he postponed his wedding in consequence.

As soon as the dispensary is established in the room adjoining our office, medicine and news will be dispensed from the same building.

The big revival still "booms" in Owensboro. There have been 106 conversions, but the hardened sinners of the Messenger office have not yet "come through."

Billkins thinks the debating society should tackle the question: "Which will take place first the drawing of the Willard Hotel Lottery, or the adjournment of the Kentucky Legislature?"

Billkins has originated a new conundrum on the subject of pensions. It is a negro is shot while stealing hogs from a butcher's pen, which should be punished the pen or the negro? Answers will be received until the 29th of last February.

The McLean Progress thinks the modern city girl will do very well to carry on a flirtation with, but when a man wants to marry he should look with a business country lass who can milk a cow with one hand and keep the calf off with the other.

We publish in another column a thrilling romance from the facile pen of the glitzy editor of the Madisonville Times. Every lady reader of the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN should cut the story out and preserve it in her scrap book as a literary gem of "the poorest my serene."

About two years ago a correspondence was brought about by a mutual friend between Dr. D. Nat Lewis, of Louisville, and Miss Julia M. Cox, of Cincinnati. The two had never seen each other, but the correspondence soon began to assume a soft tone and in a few months they had worked up a love affair that had reached a white heat, so to speak.

The letters became gushing and sentimental, and in July, 1880, Dr. Lewis visited Miss Cox and they became engaged. The mutual yam yam program was carried out and vows were mutually made and sealed. In a few months the devotion of the lovers began to wane and finally ceased altogether and the young doctor declared the engagement "off."

Last July Miss Cox filed suit at Louisville against Lewis for breach of promise to the tune of $10,000. The case was tried last week and a verdict found for the plaintiff, and the damages fixed at $2,000. The case will be carried to the Court of Appeals. Dr. Lewis is worth nothing now, but as he is a young man of expectations, the judgment may be good some time. Miss Cox is an orphan and supports herself and mother by sewing.

Twenty-three states hold elections this year. In April Rhode Island will elect a Governor, State officers and a Legislature. In June Oregon will elect State officers. In August Kentucky will choose a Clerk of the Court of Appeals and Alabama and Tennessee will elect Legislatures.

Maine will elect a Governor and Legislature in September, the Legislature to be chosen having the naming of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Frye. The October States are Ohio, Iowa, Colorado and West Virginia. In the first two States only minor officers will be chosen. Colorado will elect a Governor and Legislature, and West Virginia, her Assembly. In November Governors will be chosen in New York, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, South Carolina and Texas. Illinois will elect a Legislature which will choose David Davis's successor.

The State credit Democrats of Tennessee are threatening to form an alliance with the Republicans rather than submit to a compromise settlement of the State debt.—South Kentuckian.

Young men, they are threatening to do no such thing. On the contrary, they are striving by all honest and honorable means to have this hurtful question settled in a fair, just and equitable way. This can only be done by negotiation with the State's creditors and by coming to some voluntary and reasonable compromise. The State credit Democrats are unalterably opposed to any form of repudiation and will never consent to harmonize by destroying the honor and good name of their State.

This is the way the no-credit party seems desirous to do; while the State credit men are urging them to join in their efforts to come to some solution of the question upon a basis honorable and satisfactory alike to the creditors and the State, and thereby conciliate the Democracy and save the State from falling into the hands of the Republican party. The State credit Democrats have never threatened to join the Republican party and never will. They do not, however, consider this debt question one of party, but rather believe in a speedy settlement to be worked for by all good men irrespective of any party. Now Charles, we hope you understand the true position of the Tennessee State credit Democrats. It is not the "strict maintenance of the public credit both State and National," and we know you will say we are correct.—Clarksville Chronicle.

Sergeant Mason, the soldier who shot at Gutless, has been tried and severely punished. His sentence is dismissal from the service and eight years confinement in the penitentiary. It is believed that the President will pardon him upon the ground that he was mentally aberrant at the time of the shooting.

Dastardly Assault.

A young man named Henry Lovler, whose name has been prominent in the criminal records of the city for the last few years, was arrested Saturday night by Chief Higginbotham for a dastardly and murderous assault upon George Fox, an old man who lives in the Garrettsburg neighborhood, but who has been in the city for the past week. The two were walking along together near the depot. Lovler had asked the loan of some money from Fox and had been refused. They walked together until a favorable spot was reached when Lovler suddenly stepped behind Fox and struck him a stunning blow on the head with some heavy instrument. The latter fell, but recovered and gave the alarm; whereupon Lovler took to his heels. The police were put upon his track and he was arrested two hours later and lodged in jail. Fox was not much hurt by the blow and is on the streets again. Lovler refused to acknowledge that he was the man who did it, but said they could send him to the penitentiary where he ought to be. The officers who had him in charge, and who were well acquainted with his record, were not disposed to dispute with him on this point. He was tried yesterday and held under a $100 bond to appear at the next term of Circuit Court. Failing to give this he is now in jail. He is a white under bond to appear in Circuit Court to answer a charge of horse-stealing.

HERE AND THERE.

J. H. Winfree & Co.,

McCormick Machines and Plows

Spring begins to day.

It has rained every Sunday this month.

The City Cemetery should be given some appropriate name.

Hopkinsville is to-day the most flourishing little city in the State.

Two more of our leading business houses adopted the cash system last week.

The ladies of the Methodist church gave a fairly pulling in the basement of the church Friday evening.

The gas pipe was laid on Bridge street last week and the gas company will help to illuminate our end of the town.

The water pipe from the ice factory on Bridge street to the block Spring on Spring street has been run down Water street.

The poles for the telephone wires are now being erected and soon Hopkinsville can boast of another substantial improvement.

Messrs. Edmunds, Burbridge & Ashbrook have the most attractive sign in the city over their wagon factory on Virginia street.

The telephone posts have been planted on Main, Court and Nashville streets. The line will be in operation by the middle of April.

Mr. J. J. Rogers was killed in this county last Thursday by being crushed under a rolling log, at Forbes' Mill, north of this city.

Rev. Mr. Smithson, a blind minister of Tennessee began a series of meetings at the Christian Church Sunday. The meetings will continue throughout the week.

The telephone exchange will be over Fish & Griner's drug store on Main street. Drs. Gish & Young have moved their office to the room over Metcalf & Bro's. confectionery.

Oscar L. Babin, a well known drummer of Evansville, who formerly made regular visits to this city and had many friends here, died in Texas a few days since where he had been for the last few years.

From the first day of January 1880 till the first day of March 1882 there were 637 marriage licenses issued in Christian county. Two per cent of the population of the county marry every year.

The dispensary established for the benefit of the poor in the city will be in the building occupied by this office, over Curry's barber shop. Workmen were engaged in fitting up the room last week.

Mr. J. C. Evans has recently received two pieces of terra cotta statuary that are attracting considerable attention. They represent the goddess Minerva and Terpsichore and are the first pieces of this kind of statuary ever brought to the city. They are on exhibition at his drug store on Main street.

The C. W. C. A. will give a candy pulling in the basement of the Second Presbyterian Church next Friday evening. A small admission fee will be charged and the proceeds will be given to the fund established for the relief of the poor. It is hoped a good attendance will be had.

The "Al Clark Club" met at the residence of Mrs. Means on North Main street last night. The meeting was held in honor of Mrs. M. J. Rodden, of Nashville, Ill., who is visiting the Misses Means. The occasion was highly enjoyed by all who were so fortunate as to be present.

The Guild at the residence of Mr. H. A. Phelps last Friday evening was the most largely attended of any yet held. The receipts of the evening amounted to $8.93. The fund thus raised now amounts to about $55.

The regular meeting will be held this week, on account of the candy pulling at the Second Presbyterian Church Friday evening.

We have been asked the meaning of the word "guild." Webster's definition of the word is "An association of men belonging to the same class, or engaged in kindred pursuits, formed for mutual aid and protection; a business fraternity; as, the Stationers Guild etc." The word is derived from the Anglo Saxon gild, or geld, meaning a society or company where payment was made for its charge and support. The guilds spoken of in this city are social entertainments to which a small admission fee is charged, the money thus raised to be devoted to church purposes.

Arson.

A small frame dwelling on Green-ville street, was discovered to be on fire at eleven o'clock Tuesday night of last week. The engine was on the ground in a few minutes but the house was consumed by the flames in an incredibly short time. It was the property of a colored woman named Charles McCombs and was worth probably four or five hundred dollars. A tenant had been out of the day before and it is believed that this led to the burning of the house. No fire had been in the house for two days and it was undoubtedly fired. The engine emptied one of the cisterns on Main street, "taking exercise" after the fire.

The Wizard Oil Company, which furnished such charming tonic on our streets about a year ago, were drowned in West Tennessee by their lack training over while attempting to cross a stream. Only the old gentleman who did the talking and sold the oil escaped.—[Clarksville Tobacco Leaf.

HOPKINSVILLE'S BOOM.

There is not a city in Kentucky that is improving more rapidly than Hopkinsville. Between the years 1870 and 1880 her population was more than doubled. During the last three years the following substantial improvements have been made:

A magnificent public school building, erected at a cost of $20,000, and capable of accommodating 600 pupils. There are now over 500 in daily attendance.

The Hopkinsville Bank building, corner Main and Russellville streets, three stories high.

The City Bank block, corner of Main and Russellville streets, two stories high and three stories wide.

The Gish and Latham building west side Main street, two stories high and two stories wide.

The Gish block, corner Main and Nashville streets, two stories high and two stories wide. The front of this building is the handsomest in the city.

City Court room with engine room and police headquarters underneath, corner Main and River streets.

The Board Block, corner Main and Spring streets, three stories high. The K. of P. hall in the third story is the finest in the State outside of Louisville.

Two story block on the corner of Nashville and Virginia streets, three stories wide.

The Baptist Church on Main street was remodeled and re-erected at an expense of $7,000.

The Colored Methodist Church built on Liberty street is a nice brick structure.

The First Presbyterian Church on Russellville street, also of brick, is one of the handsomest in the city.

Over two hundred dwelling houses have been erected some of which will compare favorably with residences in the larger cities.

Seventy street lamps were put up about a year ago and the city lighted with oil.

A street-car has been in use for the last two years.

The brick block on Russellville street occupied by Hall & Taylor was erected last year. It is two stories high.

M. Schmitt's brick store on Russellville street was remodeled and raised a story higher.

A neat and convenient frame tobacco Exchange was built on Clay near Nashville street.

In addition to these the following improvements are now being made:

The pipes are being laid in and in a few months the city will be illuminated by gas.

The poles are being raised and in a few weeks a telephone exchange will be established.

The contract has already been let for the building of a stone arch bridge over the river on Bridge street.

Work has already been commenced on Holland's Opera House which will cost $25,000 and be the finest theatre in the State outside of Louisville, and finished in a good style as any in that city.

Buildings for two ice factories have already been erected and by the beginning of summer our citizens can procure ice at their doors for half a cent per pound.

Numerous other buildings for handling coal, tobacco, lumber etc. have been erected, and one large flouring mill and an immense planing mill have been built. Streets have been paved, plank-walks put down and other improvements made in every portion of the city.

In the northern suburbs a magnificent cemetery has been fitted up and laid off in the most modern style.

Telegraph School.

Messrs. J. M. Woodard & Co., have organized and permanently established a first-class school of Telegraphy in Nashville, Tenn., on Cherry street opposite the Maxwell House. Telegraphy next to the common school branches is one of the most important studies of the day, especially for young men who wish to procure immediate employment. There is no mistaking the fact that a good operator can always get a position, and one that pays from $50 to $125 per month.

Railroads are being constructed everywhere and the demand for operators cannot be supplied. Perceiving this fact the above named firm has established a splendid school for training young men in this remunerative profession.

Messrs. Woodard & Co., are well recommended by the most reliable citizens of Nashville, and we think that the young men and boys of this vicinity who contemplate pursuing this study would do well to matriculate with them. See card in another column.

MARRIED.

ROGERS-MAY.—In New Orleans, La., Thursday, March 16, 1882, Dr. Phil Rogers of this city to Miss Emma May.

Dr. Rogers' marriage was a complete surprise to his friends in this city. He had not confided his secret to a single person in the city. The first of last week he left the city saying he would be gone a few days. Upon investigation it was found that he had engaged rooms at Mrs. Armstrong's and then the secret leaked out. He returned with his bride Saturday. He has many friends here who will wish him a long life of wedded bliss.

Murder at Madisonville.

From the Evansville Journal of Sunday we glean the following particulars of the brutal assassination of Mr. Weatherly, a prominent merchant of Madisonville, Hopkins Co., last Friday night. About half-past eight o'clock, Mr. Weatherly locked up his store and started home. It was his custom to go down the railroad track to reach his residence. About nine o'clock several men, who were passing, stumbled over the body of a man not far from Mr. Weatherly's house. On raising the prostrate form, they discovered that it was Mr. Weatherly himself, very bloody and in an unconscious state. The men took him to his home and it was found that he had been crushed in with a heavy bludgeon. His pockets had been rifled and his papers were found scattered around not far from where he had fallen. He died in two hours, never having regained consciousness. No clue could be found to the perpetrators. Mr. Weatherly was a good man and useful citizen, and was about 50 years old. He leaves two daughters, one of whom, Miss Jennie Weatherly, is unmarried and is one of the most attractive young ladies in Madisonville society.

A $20.00 Biblical Reward.

The publishers of Railroad's Monthly offer ten valuable rewards in their monthly for April, among which is the following:

We will give $20.00 in gold to the person telling us which is the middle verse in the N. W. Testament Scriptures by April 10th, 1882. Should two or more correct answers be received the reward will be divided. The money will be forwarded to the winner April 15th, 1882. Persons trying for the reward must send 20 cents in silver (no postage stamps taken) with the answer which they will receive in the May Monthly, in which the name and address of the winner of the reward and the correct answer will be published. This may be worth $20.00 to you; cut it out. Address—Railroad Publishing Company, Easton, Penn.
